As the largest and oldest law library in Kansas, the Wheat Law Library is an integral part of the School of Law. It serves the law school and university community in legal and interdisciplinary scholarly pursuits and provides attorneys, judges, and the general public with access to legal information. Key components of this mission include collecting and preserving Kansas, national, and international legal documents, teaching legal information literacy, and serving as a legal information gateway by providing access to sources beyond the scope of the physical collection.

Director’s Corner
The fall semester brings with it a new class of law students, new visiting faculty and scholars and this year a new KU chancellor. The Wheat Law Library has added new databases and now contributes to a new law school blog which is posted every Tuesday. This newsletter, and every fall newsletter hereafter, will feature what I call “who does what” in the law library. It will introduce newcomers and remind others who have worked in the law school for many years what goes on and who is responsible on the front line and behind the scenes. From time to time people change duties or locations so this annual feature will be helpful. A short anecdote explains why it is important to introduce or reintroduce the library staff every now and then. For three years a law student in Green Hall was certain that our cataloger, Lauren Van Waardhuizen was a law student.

Cooler temperatures, digging sweaters and coats out of the closet, football, hot cider, chili, Halloween, and the Bluebook Relays. All things that come in the fall.

The Bluebook Relays have been going on for nearly 20 years, each fall the law library hosts the Annual Barber Emerson Bluebook Relays. The event is coordinated by Jeff Montgomery and tests the knowledge and skill of first year law students. Teams are composed of lawyering sections and a trophy and bragging rights are passed to the winning team. A prize is also awarded for the most spirited team.

Come enjoy the spirited competition of the 20th Annual Bluebook Relays on Friday, October 30 at 12:30 pm.
Welcome to “who does what” in the law library. Everyone in the library is here to help you with your research needs; we all work together in many different capacities. These descriptions reflect only a snapshot of our individual duties.
